

PROPERTY TAX APPEAL BOARD'S DECISION

APPELLANT: Rebecca Norton-Covaci
DOCKET NO.: 06-22624.001-C-1
PARCEL NO.: 14-08-317-020

The parties of record before the Property Tax Appeal Board (hereinafter PTAB) are Rebecca Norton-Covaci, the appellant, by attorney Scott Shudnow with the law firm of Shudnow & Shudnow in Chicago and the Cook County Board of Review.

The subject property consists of 9,000 square foot parcel of land improved with a four-story, masonry constructed, apartment building with 41 units. The improvement contains 20,454 square feet of gross building area with 17,373 square feet of rentable area. The appellant, via counsel, argued that the market value of the subject property is not accurately reflected in the property's assessed valuation as the basis of this appeal.

In support of the market value argument, the appellant submitted an appraisal of the subject property with an effective date of January 1, 2006. The appraiser used the three traditional approaches to value to arrive at market value of $840,000. The appraiser determined that the highest and best use to be its current use.

Based on the facts and exhibits presented, the Property Tax Appeal Board hereby finds a reduction in the assessment of the property as established by the Cook County Board of Review is warranted. The correct assessed valuation of the property is:

LAND:	$ 54,000
IMPR.:	$ 147,600
TOTAL:	$ 201,600

Subject only to the State multiplier as applicable.

PTAB/0672JBV

In the cost approach to value, the appraiser reviewed the sales of five comparables to determine a value for the land of $25.00 per square foot or $225,250, rounded. Using the Marshall Valuation Cost Service Manual, the appraiser estimated a replacement cost new for the improvement of $2,151,674. The appraiser estimated indirect costs at 2.5% and entrepreneurial incentive at 10% for a final replacement cost of $2,151,674. The appraiser then determined depreciation from all causes at 71.6% for a value of $611,783 for the improvement. The depreciated value of the site improvements of $3,650 and value of the land was then added in for a final value under the cost approach of $840,000, rounded.

In the income approach, the appraiser reviewed a survey from The Apartment People and the rent of five comparable properties and established a range of $465.00 to $2,400.00 per apartment unit. After adjustments and the inclusion of income from laundry, the appraiser determined a potential gross income for the subject of $281,460. The appraiser then applied a 10% vacancy & collection factor for an effective gross income (EGI) from all sources of $253,460. Expenses were then estimated at $136,310 for a net operating income of $117,150. Using the band of investments, market analysis and published sources, the appraiser applied a loaded capitalization rate of 14% for a total value based on the income approach of $840,000, rounded.

Under the sales comparison approach to value, the appraiser examined the sale of 59 apartment buildings in the subject's market and utilized five detailed suggested comparable sales also located in the same market as the subject. The comparables consist of one or two building, two through 12-story, masonry, apartment building. The comparables range: in age from three to 87 years; in apartment units from 40 to 155; and in size from 26,500 to 75,011 square feet of building area. The properties sold from January 2005 to May 2006 for prices ranging from $2,300,000 to $5,994,685 or from $51.74 to $178.30 per square foot of building area. The appraiser made several adjustments to the comparables. Based on this, the appraiser determined the subject property's value using the sales comparison approach to be $900,000 rounded.

In reconciling the approaches to value, the appraiser gave substantial emphasis to the income approach, minimal consideration on the sales comparison approach and the least weight on the cost approach for a final value for the subject as of January 1, 2006 of $840,000.

The appellant submitted rebuttal evidence arguing that the board of review's evidence is not sufficient and does not refute the appellant's appraisal. At hearing, the appellant's attorney, Scott Shudnow, argued that the appraisal was the best evidence of the subject's market value and that the board of review's comparables were flawed. Mr. Shudnow argued that there was no appraisal submitted by the board of review and that the sales comparables submitted were not adjusted for differences between them and the subject property. Mr. Shudnow then argued the flaws of each suggested comparable submitted by the board of review.

The board of review submitted "Board of Review-Notes on Appeal" wherein the subject's total assessment was $219,556. The subject's assessment reflects a market value of $914,817 using the level of assessment of 24% for Class 3 property as contained in the Cook County Real Property Assessment Classification Ordinance. The board also submitted raw sale information for a total of five properties suggested as comparable to the subject. These comparables are all located within the subject's market and are improved with three-story, masonry, apartment buildings. These buildings range: in age from 76 to 100 years; in apartment units from 36-44; and in size from 23,484 to 26,700 square feet of gross or rentable area. The comparables sold from January 2001 to July 2004 for prices ranging from $900,000 to $2,700,000 or from $35.71 to $114.97 per square foot of gross or rentable area. As a result of its analysis, the board requested confirmation of the subject's assessment. At hearing, the board of review's representative rested on the evidence submitted.

After considering the evidence and reviewing the testimony, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds that it has jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter of this appeal.

When overvaluation is claimed the appellant has the burden of proving the value of the property by a preponderance of the evidence. National City Bank of Michigan/Illinois v. Illinois Property Tax Appeal Board, 331Ill.App.3d 1038 (3rd Dist. 2002); Winnebago County Board of Review v. Property Tax Appeal Board, 313 Ill.App.3d 179 (2nd Dist. 2000). Proof of market value may consist of an appraisal, a recent arm's length sale of the subject property, recent sales of comparable properties, or recent construction costs of the subject property. 86 Ill.Admin.Code 1910.65(c). Having considered the evidence presented, the PTAB concludes that the evidence indicates a reduction is warranted.

In determining the fair market value of the subject property, the PTAB finds the best evidence to be the appellant's appraisal. The appellant's appraiser utilized the three traditional approaches to value in determining the subject's market value. The PTAB finds this appraisal to be persuasive for the appraiser: has experience in appraising; personally inspected the subject property and reviewed the property's history; estimated a highest and best use for the subject property; utilized appropriate market data in undertaking the approaches to value; and lastly, used similar properties in the sales comparison approach while providing sufficient detail regarding each sale as well as adjustments that were necessary. The PTAB gives little weight to the board of review's comparables as the information provided was raw sales data with no adjustments made and two properties lack sufficient comparability information.

Therefore, the PTAB finds that the subject property contained a market value of $840,000 for the 2006 assessment year. Since the market value of the subject has been established, the Cook County Real Property Classification Ordinance level of assessment of 24% for 2006 will apply. In applying this level of assessment to the subject, the total assessed value for is $201,600 while the subject's total assessed value for the current assessment year of $219,556 is above this amount. Therefore, the PTAB finds that a reduction is warranted.

This is a final administrative decision of the Property Tax Appeal Board which is subject to review in the Circuit Court or Appellate Court under the provisions of the Administrative Review Law (735 ILCS 5/3-101 et seq.) and section 16-195 of the Property Tax Code.
